

Danfoss LX Electric Floor Heating

The Danfoss LX product line provides a new level of quality and installation ease. It is supplied as a mat which can be rolled out quickly on almost any sub-floor. The mat is made of a durable fiberglass material that can withstand the rigors of a job site, and can be easily cut around obstacles like toilets, sinks, and cabinets. Unique in the industry, the mat is self-adhesive, and doesn't require other adhesives or double-sided tape. This feature eliminates a step from the installation process. Our Electric Floor Heating Systems were designed with the Installer in mind: Pre-Applied Heating Cable, Single Point Connection, Self-Adhesive Backing, Quick Installation, Genuine 10-Year Warranty.

Headquartered in Denmark, Danfoss is one of the world's leading manufacturers of electronic and mechanical components and control systems for refrigeration & air-conditioning, heating, and motion controls. Danfoss operates in more than 100 countries, employs over 20,000 people, and holds more than 1800 patents on a wide range of products.

What is LXInstaller.com?

Create new opportunities for your business as a certified Danfoss LX Installer. Business tools, training, and support from Danfoss bring credibility to your sales message. And peace of mind to your customers.

How does it Work?

The Danfoss Installer program has been designed to give you knowledge on how to properly install the Danfoss LX Heating systems. You will learn the proper methods and techniques of installing the Danfoss floor heating systems.

By becoming a certified Danfoss installer you will be added to our installer database on the front page of our website. This will enable customers to find you based on your ZIP Code/Postal Code. The installer program will also give distributors an active database of installers to refer to in your area.

The training is broken down into 5 sections. Each training section is accompanied by text, images and video. There is no time limit, so you can spread this out over several days if needed. It's possible to jump from section to section whenever you need to. When you have a clear understanding of the installation process you can take the test.
